

Cow Sense® Product Support Bulletin

Preg Check data is unavailable after running New Cycle

Discussion: The Preg Check data from the previous year has to be cleared out at some point before you begin preg checking for the coming year. The decision was made to clear the fields during the Run New Cycle operation. One of the reasons for clearing those fields during the Run New Cycle operation was to eliminate another operation that the user must remember to run.

Note: This does not affect the estimated calving dates that are calculated when entering breeding data.

Solution: Prior to running new cycle, create a custom cow report that along with Cow ID contains Preg Check Date, Days Bred, Estimated Calving Date, Status, and Stage. Save the report layout and then print the report. You will have the printed information available for reference and will have saved the report layout to be used each year.
